ABSTRACT

When Purdue University and Indiana University merged their Indianapolis campuses into IUPUI in 1969, the administration merged under the office of the Vice Chancellor and Dean for Administrative Affairs. This office oversaw a variety of campus operations, including student services, continuing education, computing services, and the Columbus Center campus. Later, the office was headed by a Director of Administrative Affairs. Still later, the office split into two offices, that of the Vice Chancellor Administrative Affairs and the Vice Chancellor for Budgetary and Fiscal Affairs. The office was again reconfigured under the Vice Chancellor for Administration and Finance. The Vice Chancellor administers a number of services on campus, including accounting, the bursar, the police department, the campus bookstores, human resources, and several other offices.

Records include correspondence, minutes, reports, publications, and other records.
